

House Rules

The house is currently available as a complementary bridal suite. We kindly ask you to follow some basic house rules that we have set in place for the cleanliness and safety of our guests.

- No smoking or vaping inside the house

Our home is a smoke free home. You are welcome to step outside and smoke on the deck, patio, or porch, as long as trash is properly disposed of.

- No dogs in the house

We love the idea of having your fur-baby's apart of your big day. We have plenty of space for them to play outside as well as water available for them.

- Limited use of the kitchen

For liability purposes we ask whatever food you bring with be prepared beforehand. Feel free to use the kitchen to set out your mimosa and breakfast bar however you'd like.

- Please only flush toilet paper

Part of our charm is our old farmhouse. Which naturally comes with some quirks of its own. Please only flush toilet paper. We ask any makeup items or sanitary items be properly disposed of in the trash cans.

Barn Rules

Farms can be dangerous, and the best way to ensure you enjoy your day is to avoid any unnecessary risks or injuries.

- No entry allowed in the grey barn

As we continue to grow and build, the grey barn will be under construction. Please know that it is unsafe for children to play inside, be sure to always supervise your children.

- Please respect our antiques

The buggies are covered and cared for before and after each event. Please do not let your children jump, pull, or throw rocks at them. They are strong enough to hold people, but not to withstand unnecessary abuse.

- Do not pick the flowers

Our gardens are for everyone, but if everyone picks our flowers we won't have a garden anymore. Please feel free to enjoy the gardens but do not pick the flowers.

- Please respect the land- throw away trash properly

We want you to enjoy your special event! What makes for better pictures are those without trash in the background. It happens that you forget your beer on the ground, but please try to use the garbage's placed throughout the venue.
